

Jay Nagley

Jay has been associated with the car industry since working for Porsche in the late 1980s.

Through the 1990s he ran the UK division of a major German consultancy and in 1998 he set up his own consultancy, Spyder Redspy Ltd. He ran the company until 2014, when he joined the Automotive Sector Team as R&D Specialist.

He now works with overseas suppliers to increase the amount of R&D they do in the UK in three key areas: low carbon propulsion, vehicle lightweighting and connected and autonomous vehicles. He also works with UK automotive technology companies to supply their products and skills to global customers.